Evangelism- better together.

Dear All,

We have just had the fourth ecumenical mission in Falmouth which coincided with the Shanty festival weekend. The mission team was comprised of members from local churches from Falmouth and Penryn with various denominations working as one to share faith in Christ. This is a refreshing approach to mission.

The mission team met in KCM church each day and refreshments were provided by the Huddle coffee shop. The day started with prayer and worship and then groups met up to plan for the day. The groups explored different methods of evangelism and this year it included a group which focused on prayer and healing.

The mission team were encouraged by the week. The team had conversations with many people who were visiting the town. Some people were happy to have a prayer of blessing, others were willing to listen as members shared their faith and some people received Christ. The prayer healing team had a lot of enquiries and I know that many people were helped by the outreach. The family tent for children on the Moor was very popular.

The mission week concluded with a service of praise in the New Street Church. We heard testimonies from the week and this was very encouraging. One of the great things from the mission week is the fact that our local Churches are working together in evangelism and ministry. We give thanks to God for his blessing for this mission and rejoice in the cooperation with other Churches.

Yours sincerely,

Stephen.
